Effects of Eyestrain

A few of the many symptoms of eyestrain are dry, itchy, or inflamed eyes, pain in eyeball, eyes tire easily, dizziness, headache, sick-headache—made worse by shopping, riding on cars—cross eyes etc., etc.; and by its constant drain upon the nervous system eyestrain is one of the great disturbers of good health. The cause of eyestrain is an imperfectly developed eyeball and the only way to stop it is by the constant wear of properly fitted glasses. My business is fitting glasses to correct the fault defect and stop all eyestrain. My next date at Dr. Merrill's office is Monday, March 15.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Ludwig went to Modesto Tuesday for a two weeks' visit with old friends and neighbors.

The business houses are closed today and many of the merchants are helping swell Santa Clara crowds at the Exposition.

Mrs. Geo. Mattley and son, Roy, are here from Jackson, Amador county, visiting Mrs. Mattley's brother, S. G. Rodeck and family.

Mrs. H. B. Newton who has been visiting her friend, Mrs. C. J. Ludwig for the past three weeks returned to her home at Hollister Friday.

J. F. Duncan, Geo. H. Stray, Mrs. W. W. Stewart and Mrs. Orrill E. Atkinson were appointed a committee to see about electric fixtures for "The Manse."

The grand operas this week have been drawing quite a number of Campbell music lovers. A party of about twenty was in attendance Tuesday evening.

Hon. Wm. Johnstone of Pasadena, a friend of "Uncle Ed's" for more than forty years arrived Saturday for a visit. Ed. says look out for him politically.

The Rev. Geo. E. Atkinson is absent this week on the Efficiency Campaign of the Congregational Conference, visiting some of the churches in Sacramento Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Inman returned from Fresno Sunday after spending three months there. Mr. Inman says that things are pretty quiet there and the city is already feeding quite an army of unemployed.

Fred Bohrman's Sunday-School Class enjoyed a party Saturday afternoon at "The Manse." This class has organized a Junior Boys "Gymnasium" Class, meeting Wednesday afternoons at the Club rooms.

S. G. Rodeck and A. E. Brydon have cleared the trees and stumps from their property, which opens north 3rd street to S. G. Nelson's tract. The plan is to have it graded and gravelled in good condition in time.

The Searchlight Class of the Congregational Sunday-School pledged $35 to the American Board and hope to make it $50 for the year. This class supports a Memorial Bed in Dr. H. H. Atkinson's Hospital in Harpoot, Turkey.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Randall of Santa Monica, stopped off here last week on their return from the Fair opening for a visit with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Curry. Mr. Randall formerly lived on Santa Clara road and has a longing to live here again.

The Boys' Club is rejoicing in the fact that money has been pledged to install a shower bath and a turning pole in the Club room at the Congregational church. The men who contributed towards this fund are to have the privilege of using the shower the hot days of summer!

O. P. Kimmel and wife returned Tuesday from their visit with their daughters at Brownsville, Oregon, and Turlock. While in Oregon he enjoyed a trip up in the Cascades in two feet of snow after Christmas trees. Mr. Kimmel says he feels ten years younger after the changes of climate but likes Campbell best.

A real relic is on display at the Press office. L. C. Ralston has brought us one of the ancient firearms of Puritan times which was presented him by one of the Commissioners at the World's Fair in Chicago. The blunderbuss is of the short flintlock bell muzzle style with a wood stock full length. Mr. Ralston is not versed in its history but it was probably one of the Puritan implements used in the Indian wars.

Sherlock Holmes leaned back in his chair and regarded his friend with undisguised amusement. "Watson," he said presently, "your freshly shaven face is evidence that you have been to the barbers. The rose in your label tells me you have visited a florists and I deduct from the square box in your pocket that you called at King's. Don't let me detain you. She is no doubt waiting for you." KING'S.

Henry Campbell and family who attended the Fair on opening day met with a slight accident with their machine. On their return trip the streets being wet and slipperry, the car was carried by its momentum into close quarters where Delbert, who was driving, took his choice of crashing into the San Mateo Electric car or a large dirt cart, choosing the latter of course. The lights and fenders were badly damaged but the trip was completed that night and the family is thanking lucky stars for their escape from what might have been a terrible accident.

The second semi-annual apportionment of state school funds was made Feb. 15, $2,306,711.64 being the total sum. Of this amount Santa Clara grammar schools, with an average daily attendance of 10,863, in June, 1914, will receive $78,430.86. The county high schools will receive $15,175.27 for an attendance of 1,871. Campbell High apportionment is $1,153.30.

They're Off!

Countless thousands of Santa Clara county residents are in the limelight at the Fair today. This is our county day. An auto parade up Market street and thence to the Fair is the plan. All autos will be decorated with blossoms of the valley. On the arrival of the autos at the Fair grounds, a pedestrian parade will be made to the California building. Movie machines will be run thruout the parades as an advertising scheme for the East. Campbell will be well represented both in the auto and pedestrian line.

Chicago is coming to the Fair with a rush.

The Santa Fe Limited pulled out of the Dearborn-street station in eight sections of twelve cars each. The Rock Island's Golden Gate Limited left the Van Buren-street depot in four sections. The Southern Pacific's Overland Limited required two sections.

Telegrams from Union Pacific headquarters in Omaha stated that that line was compelled by the first rush of exposition traffic to add fifty-three extra sleeping cars to its trains out of Omaha and Kansas City.

The Rock Island left Omaha in two sections and the Burlington added four extra Pullmans to its trains.

The limited trains on the Southern Pacific, Santa Fe and Rock Island will operate extra sections out of Chicago all the rest of this week.

Why of Course

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. L. Vogt of Julian are in receipt of a copy of the Roane County News, published in Mrs. Vogt's old home town, Harriman, Tennessee, which contained the following sprightly clipping concerning the optimism of the true California spirit.

A California Exchange says:

"California has annexed its new volcano as a side show for the exposition," remarks our Washington correspondent Gilson Gardner.

Bet your life, California annexes anything the Lord sends. If there's any truly big thing that no other state has got, look for it in California! If any other state has got a truly big thing that California hasn't, look out for California's annexing of it.

Yes sir, that volcano is part of California's show. She's also going to show some few interesting remains of the late earthquake and big fire. Some people lie down under the affliction of fire, earthquake, volcano, flood, drouth or other calamitous visitation. Not so Californians. Californians annex 'em, make practical use of them as boomers of the state that can out-phoenix the original phoenix with one wing crippled.

"Quit" isn't in the lexicon of youthful California. That word is scratched out and "boost" written in its place. There is nothing under which commonwealths are supposed to groan and despair that California does not annex and assimilate as "boost." If you can't sell 'em real estate, show 'em volcanoes! It is the California spirit. It is a part of a people who journeyed across plain, desert and mountain barefoot and empty, "annexed" sage brush because they had no flour, wore meal sacks because they had no clothes, chewed roots because they were out of meat, drank anything so long as it was wet, bred into their children courage and everlasting hope and thus made a people that knows how to annex calamity and hardship to their own advantage.

Yes sir! Attend these great California expositions—two of them; count them!—and see the only active volcano in the United States. See the balls ofred hot rock shooting into the sky! Behold the mighty clouds of smoke and steam rolling off toward the Pacific under the impetus of the eastern gale, or off toward Reno when the wind's the other way. Let your effete eastern soul quiver astounded at the floods of moulten lava tearing down her slopes for miles and miles, or nearly that far! The only expositions ever pulled off with a live volcano in the next tent! And the choicest sub-divisions of realty on God's earth lying nearby to be snapped up on the installment plan.

Entertained at Cards

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Wells entertained a company of their friends Friday evening in their beautiful new home on Payne avenue.

Five tables of five hundred were played and Mrs. Geo. Robson made the highest score for the ladies and Dan Owen for the gentlemen, while Mrs. Owen and Mr. Davidson carried off the consolation prizes.

Supper was served in the dining room, the tables being charmingly decorated with vines and bowls of violets.

It was well into Saturday when the guests bid their hosts farewell with expressions of appreciation for the evening's pleasure.

Planning Purchases Ahead

"Dick," said Tom, "what makes your wife always so happy and gay? She has the sweetest face I ever saw; just to look at her for a minute does a fellow more good than a week's vacation.

"Well," replied Dick, "it wasn't always so. My wife used to cultivate the hurry habit, and put off every thing until the last minute—or later. She became so nervous and irritable that her friends began to shun her like a plague. But there came a change. Nobody said anything; she just sat down and thought it out for herself. She began right at the bottom; started to plan her kitchen work ahead; commenced to order a week's supply of groceries at a time; made it a point to keep a variety of canned goods—vegetables, fish, and other things—on hand for any emergency; and systematized her work thruout. You see the result. She's the sweetest and most attractive wife a fellow ever had. After I get home from work you couldn't pull me away from the house with four mules and a block-and-tackle."

"I see," said Tom. "My wife waits until a quarter of twelve, phones for a can of corn, and then walks the floor like mad until the delivery man comes. That idea of keeping a good variety of groceries always on hand appeals to me. I'll ask the lady to make up an order for BLAINE'S STORE this afternoon."

FRENCH OFFICER'S REMARKABLE ESCAPE FROM MOB.

Revelation of Closely Guarded Secret May Have Been Unpleasant but Undoubtedly There Were Great Compensations.

On February 24, 1848, when Paris was disturbed by the revolutionary mobs, a Captain Prebois was sent by the government with orders to be delivered to the leaders of the troops that were defending the threatened points in various parts of the city. It was a dangerous undertaking, for the bitterness of the people against the government was intense.

Before starting out, says Novellen-Schatz, Captain Prebois was warned to take the greatest care if he valued his life; but he took the warnings lightly, and said, "If you fellows knew my black horse as well as I know him, you wouldn't worry about me. That horse has carried me through thick and thin." And with a farewell wave of his hand, he was off.

The black horse of which the gallant captain was so proud was indeed a beautiful animal. He had a well-shaped, erect head, a deep chest, and slender, well-formed legs. But there was something very extraordinary about his tail. It was long and bushy, but it never moved or twitched, except with the movement of the animal's body. Closo observation showed also that it had a slightly reddish hue, although the difference in color was not great enough to be noticed under ordinary conditions.

When Prebois arrived in the disturbed section of the city he fearlessly delivered his messages. He met with no resistance from the crowds in the streets until he reached the Place Vendome, one of the principal squares in the heart of the city. Here a great crowd of revolutionists had gathered, and as the officer rode through the square, some one seized the bridle and cried, in a fierce voice, "Hold! What message are you carrying?"

The captain refused to answer. "Put a bullet through him and get that message!" bawled out the man in a commanding voice. He was evidently a leader of the mob.

At this point, the captain determined that quick action alone would save him from violence at the hands of the crowd. Quick as a flash, he wheeled his horse, and dashed off. Several bullets flew after him, but they went wild—and then suddenly ceased altogether. He looked round, and saw the mob crowding round one of their number, who held something in his hand. And then his eyes fell on the back of his horse, and his heart sank in dismay.

It seemed that, as he whirled his horse about, several men seized hold of the animal. But the powerful creature threw them all except one, a lad of fourteen, who had seized the horse's tail. That tail was the object of interest that had caused the shooting to stop—for it had come off. There stood the boy, in the middle of the road, with his feet spread apart and an expression of grim determination on his face, as he tightly clutched the fleeing creature's tail. The mob saw the humor of the situation, and burst into a roar of laughter.

The explanation came out later. It seems that Captain Prebois' horse, while perfect in every other particular, did not have a very good tail, and so his master had had an artificial one made for him. No doubt that artificial tail, and that alone, saved Captain Prebois' life.

Rodin's Gift to England.

In the Burlington Magazine an article on Rodin's gift to the British nation of a collection of his works is acclaimed from an angle of appreciation. The writer decides that although Rodin's fame was made in France it was established in England and that in reality Rodin is a British institution. There is something to be said in more senses than one for the contention. Superficially, there is less sharpness of contrast between the best British sculpture and that of Rodin than exists between his work and all other French sculpture of technical excellence. His blurred contours are seen to better effect in the environment of London than in the vivacious light of the Luxembourg. But of course the main point is that the generous old sculptor achieved a maximum of tact in making himself the symbol of the new mutual understanding between the two great nations.

Liver Ills in Varnish.

A new liver disease caused by a quick-drying varnish, and to which varnishers and polishers may be subject, was discovered at London, England, by Dr. Bernard Spilsbury and Dr. Wilcox, the eminent pathologists, in an autopsy upon a workman who had been employed at the Hendon aircraft factory.

This varnish is composed of tetrochlorether, menthylated spirit, benzine and other ingredients. Rats subject to the vapor, said Dr. Wilcox at the inquest, became drowsy and developed an extensive liver disease. The workman's death was due to syncope from disease of the liver caused by the action of tetrochlorether.

DEADLY BARB WIRE

European Nations Have Chosen American Design.

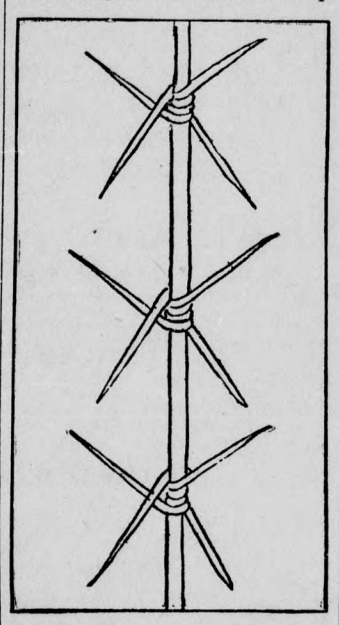
Indiana Firm Expects to Turn Out Enormous Quantities of Its Product for Use Before the Conflict Is Ended.

It has remained for an American to devise the most murderous form of fortification that can be used in the present European war.

Since the latest inventions in big siege guns have made ordnance fortifications not only useless but death traps to their garrisons barbed wire entanglements have come into general use to hold the enemy at bay.

But where was the kind of barbed wire necessary for this work to be found? A Kokomo (Ind.) manufacturer has answered the question to the satisfaction of some of the nations at least.

A plant at Kokomo manufacturing wire has just completed special machinery for turning out a murderous type of barbed wire for use in the European conflict. The drawing shows the wire in its actual size. This special wire has barbs more than an inch long, wound on a one-eighth-inch steel rod. The barbs are placed in sets of four at one-inch intervals along the steel core, the points standing out at right angles. The barbs are sharper than those on the usual barbed wire and are capable of inflicting severe injury to a horse or man.



Here Is a Sample of the Deadly Barb Wire Being Made in America for European Use.

In spite of the size of the core rod the wire is flexible to a remarkable degree and is wound on ordinary reels for shipment. The local company expects to turn out immense quantities of this special wire in the near future.

Just Wouldn't Be German.

A German appeared in the naturalization bureau for his second papers admitting him to citizenship yesterday. A comely woman came with him as his witness.

"I am his wife," she said to John Hein, who is in charge of the bureau.

"You won't do," she was told, "because only a citizen can be a witness."

The woman bridled and said:

"I would have you know that I am a citizen; I was born in New Jersey."

"But when you married a German you became a German yourself."

"But I positively will not be a German," she declared, "and I defy anybody to force me to be one."

"Well, well," said Mr. Hein soothingly, "you will be an American again as soon as your husband gets his papers."

"And I want to tell you," said the woman, turning to her husband, "that you had better be quick about it. Why, that's the most ridiculous thing I ever heard of. It makes me feel like an orphan."—New York Times.

Found Husband on Film.

During a moving picture show at Liverpool, a Belgian woman refugee recognized her husband in a film depicting scenes in the Belgian trenches. The husband appeared in the picture to be in the best of health and spirits. As they had been separated early in the war, and the address of each was unknown to the other, the woman tried frantically to obtain information from the theater, and even wrote to the film agent. But the name of the place where the husband was seen had been deleted by the censor. The film company, however, promised to try to trace the matter through the camera operator.

It Is a Question.

A Boston dispatch says that children of the tenements who search dump heaps, freightyards, markets and ash barrels for food, fuel and clothes are the subject of a report just issued by the Massachusetts child labor committee, which recommends legislation to exclude these "child scavengers" from the dumps. We wonder if the labor committee recommended any legislation that would help to make it unnecessary for these starving children of the tenements to "scavenger" in order to get food sufficient to live on?—Houston Post.

BEAUTIFUL PISGAH FOREST

SCENE IN PISGAH NATIONAL PARK

UNCLE SAM has been fortunate enough to secure the model forest of the United States as an addition to our group of national forests—not a play forest or a "park," but the big Pisgah tract of 90,000 acres in North Carolina, formerly owned by the late George W. Vanderbilt, and during the past 25 years transformed by him from a wild and partly denuded area into a highly productive, commercial forest, writes Guy Elliott Mitchell in the Utica Globe.

If scientific forestry, including practical lumbering, timber reproduction, fire fighting and prevention of denudation and erosion were an entirely new science in America, Uncle Sam could have no better example of all these things actually worked out than in this magnificent Pisgah forest.

The area was purchased from Mrs. Vanderbilt at the nominal figure of $5 an acre, which may be considered a gift to the American people from Mrs. Vanderbilt of $200,000—the difference between the purchase price and that at which the Pisgah forest was offered to the government by Mr. Vanderbilt. This is by far the finest forest yet acquired under the Weeks national forest act, yet the cost is less, thanks to Mrs. Vanderbilt's generosity, than the average of all the other tracts purchased by the government, which aggregate nearly a million acres.

Precipitous and Lofty Area.

The Pisgah forest area, which is an outlying section of the famous Vanderbilt Biltmore estate, was critically examined by the United States government in 1912 with a view to possible purchase, in conformity with the provisions of the Weeks law, which requires the United States geological survey to report on all areas before purchase, with respect to the effects of their forest cover on the navigability of the streams, or their tributaries flowing through. These investigations proved the value of the mountain forests as a preventer of erosion and a retarder of the run-off storm waters that feed the French Broad river, which unites with the Holston river at Knoxville, to form the navigable Tennessee river.

Overlooking the valleys, this area is one of the most precipitous and lofty in the eastern United States, a dozen or more summits of the great Pisgah range rising above 6,000 feet. The rainfall is heavy and the creeks and streams flow with swift currents which erode and rapidly gully out the steep unprotected slopes, carrying down into the streams great quantities of soil and sediment from such areas as have been wastefully lumbered, cleared or burnt over. The protection of the forest cover, therefore, becomes a vital factor in the navigability of the large rivers, as well as in the preservation of their valuable water powers.

One of God's Beauty Spots.

Shortly after the formal reports of the forest service and the geological survey, the Pisgah area was visited by Secretary of Interior Lane, Secretary of Agriculture Houston and Representative Hawley of Oregon and Representative Lee of Georgia, members of the national forest reservation committee, in company with Forester Henry S. Graves and George Otis Smith, director of the geological survey. The party made a three days' trip by autos and wagons, and everyone's opinion was that not only did Biltmore constitute perfection as a mountain-woodland estate, but that Pisgah forest area was one of God's own beauty spots.

Long before finishing their inspection of the Pisgah forest the members of the party were agreed that Mr. Vanderbilt's method of lumbering was true conservation. Viewed from the summits of imposing peaks there stretched before the eyes of the visitors illimitable areas of forest, some of it virgin and other portions lumbered, but under such judicious cutting that at any distance only Forester Graves could be certain that the lumberman had been at work; to the uninitiated, the whole forest seemed practically untouched.

Paradise for Birds and Animals.

The wild animals and the birds of the southern Appalachians might well make merry could they appreciate this purchase by Uncle Sam. It is now proposed to make the region a game refuge for the preservation of the fauna of the eastern United States. Already the Pisgah forest is well peopled with deer, wild turkey and pheasants, and in the streams are brisk rainbow and brook trout. Fishing may be allowed, but there in this preserve our two and four footed friends at least may work out their natural destinies. Within its boundaries they may mate, rear their little ones and enjoy life to the full, secure from the murderous crack of the high-powered rifle or the terrorizing roar of the shotgun.

Indeed, the Pisgah forest is destined to become a splendid national park, peopled with animals and birds and resplendent in livery as the seasons roll by, with the many shades of tree green, the red and pink of the mountain laurel and rhododendron, the dwarf locust with bright, cheery-colored blossoms, the red, yellow and pink azaleas, the painted trillium and in the fall when the frost lightly touches growing things, the brilliant and burnished hues of the virgin Appalachian woodland.

Doubtless had the late John Muir been of the East instead of the West he would long ago have traversed afoot these lofty, ancient ridges and enthusiastically urged their creation into a nation's playground, with its dedication for all time to the American people, and also to the real native Americans—the animals and the birds.

German Fortresses.

Of the more important German fortresses Mainz is regarded as the most strategic point in the west of Europe. Situated on the eastern front of the Rhine, which it dominates, it commands also the natural way to the Danube and the routes leading to the Elbe Valley, to Cassel and to the Black Forest. Next comes Koenigsberg, on the Baltic, guarded on its eastern side by the Dieme canal.

Metz, the greatest stronghold in Alsace-Lorraine, is protected by eleven forts, and in peace time is a center of the German army. Its sister fortress, Strassburg, designed by Moltke, was considered by him to be impregnable. It is protected by fifteen forts, connected by citadel railways, and from it armies can maneuver east or west of the Rhine without intervention.

Solemnization of Marriages.

Many persons believe, writes Mr. Hugo Hirsh, of the Brooklyn Bar, in Case and Comment, that the ceremony of marriage in order to be legal must be solemnized by a priest, minister, rabbi, or other religious teacher, but this is not so, because there are other persons mentioned in the law who may solemnize a marriage. Indeed, in many of the states common-law marriages, which mean simply the agreement of the man and the women to live together as husband and wife, are still recognized. The demand for a religious ceremony, however, is not always one of creed, but is frequently caused by a desire for the handsome, expensive and ceremonious setting for a social function.

BROTHERS IN MISERY

COMRADESHIP OF WOUNDED ON THE BATTLEFIELD.

Letter Written to His Fiancee by Dying French Officer Reveals Triumph of the Finer Feelings of Humanity.

A letter, which is among the most moving documents written since the beginning of the war, has been received by a young American woman in Paris. It was written by her fiance, a French cavalry officer, as he lay dying in Flanders, and with the letter she received the news of his death.

After narrating how he was wounded in the chest during a cavalry charge and temporarily lost consciousness, the writer goes on:

"There are two other men lying near me and I do not think there is much hope for them, either. One is an officer of a Scottish regiment and the other a private in the uhlans.

"They were struck down after me and when I came to myself I found them bending over me, rendering first aid. The Britisher was pouring water down my throat from his flask, while the German was endeavoring to stanch my wound with an antiseptic preparation served out by their medical corps.

"The Highlander had one of his legs shattered and the German had several pieces of shrapnel buried in his side. In spite of their own sufferings they were trying to help me, and when I was fully conscious again the German gave me a morphia injection and took one himself. His medical corps had also provided him with the injection and the needle, together with printed instructions for its use.

"After the injection, feeling wonderfully at ease, we spoke of the lives we had lived before the war. We all spoke English, and we talked of the women we had left at home. Both the German and the Britisher had only been married a year.

"I wondered, and I suppose the others did, why we had fought each other at all. I looked at the Highlander, who was falling to sleep exhausted, and in spite of his drawn face and mud-stained uniform, he looked the embodiment of freedom. Then I thought of the tricolor of France and all that France had done for liberty.

"Then I watched the German, who had ceased to speak. He had taken a prayer book from his knapsack and was trying to read a service for soldiers wounded in battle."

The letter ends with a reference to the failing light and the roar of guns. It was found at the dead officer's side by a Red Cross file and forwarded to his fiancee.

Germany's Dead Letter Mail.

The German post office is to spare the feelings, so far as possible, of the families of soldiers who have fallen in battle, when mail matter, nondeliverable for that reason, is returned to the sender. Hitherto it was the custom to stamp on the letter or package merely the word "fallen," or "dead," and send it back home to shock the relatives with this harsh brevity. Now the military authorities have been directed to use the words "fallen for the fatherland," or "fallen on the field of honor."

In still another way the authorities are trying to soften the blow of death notices from the front. Hitherto this was attempted only in country districts, where the returned mail of the fallen soldiers was handed over to the local authorities or the clergyman, who then undertook to break the fatal news gently to the family. Something like this is now to be done also in the towns and cities. The local authorities will now be asked to select some person suitable for bearing the message of death.

Monkey War Veteran.

Jacko, the pet monkey of H. M. S. Loyal, who has been in three wars, recently paid a flying visit to Harwich, and for the sake of variety made part of the journey on the roof of a railway carriage.

Born in South Africa during the war, Jacko was made the pet of a regiment, and was with the troops on two or three battlefields. A seaman fathered him and took him afloat. He went to the China station, and was with the naval brigade in the Boxer rebellion. Back to sea he went from ship to ship, and he was in the Loyal during its recent engagement with German destroyers.

Being an old soldier, he then took refuge in the fish-kettle, emerging quite gay and hearty when the shooting was over.—London Daily Mail.

Tramps Raid Peacock Pen.

A feast fit for kings, perhaps, has been indulged by hoboes who raided the grounds of Millionaire Gardner Hammond of Montecito, Cal., and made off with the peacocks. The beautiful fowls have attracted no end of comment, being imported birds.

The loss was discovered in the morning and all day Sheriff Nat Stewart searched the hobo camps, but in vain. Raids on Montecito hen coops have been of nightly occurrence.

"Big reward paid and no questions asked," is the way the Hammonds are advertising for the return of their peacocks.

She Doesn't Save Them.

"Young Mr. Twobble is very dignified. Do his letters to you burn, Patricia?"

"Yes—eventually."

CURED HIM OF THE PICCOLO

Musician Decides to Dispose of Instrument After Listening to Phonographic Rendition.

During the demonstration of his new kinetophone, Mr. Edison said:

"With this invention an actor may hear himself speak as well as see himself act. Let us hope he won't be disappointed—like the piccolo player in a music store who was urged to buy a phonograph. The dealer, as a last resort, got the man to make a phonographic record of 'The Last Rose of Summer' with his own piccolo.

"The dealer then ran the tune off while the player—a really wretched performer—listened with a strange air. At the end the dealer said:

"'There! Isn't that wonderful?'

"'H'm—well—yes,' said the piccolo player.

"'And now,' said the dealer, briskly, 'are you going to buy the phonograph?'

"'No,' the player answered. 'I'm going to sell the piccolo.'"

HER FIRST INQUIRY.

The Victim of the Accident (recovering consciousness)—Was my—my—new hat hurt?

Thrills on the Turf.

"They must have had a terrible time at the race track," said young Mrs. Torkins. "Charley came back very much depressed."

"What happened?" asked the woman who was calling.

"It sounds like wholesale slaughter, but I can't find anything about it in the paper. Charley says he went up against a number of long shots and nearly all the horses are dead ones."

The Real Thing.

"You should have heard Smith at the club lunch the other afternoon. He certainly is in love with his wife the way he kept talking about her perfections. By the way, I didn't notice Jones there."

"No, he was at home, putting down the carpet at their flat for fear his wife would have to do it herself."

Might Have Boosted Prices.

"I suppose it is annoying when a man goes out because you haven't something cheaper."

"Yes," said the small merchant. "But what gives you heart disease is when a fellow goes out because you haven't something more expensive."

The Man and the Machine.

"How many votes did you get?"

"Not nearly as many as the other fellow," said the man who is always philosophical. "You see, I had to depend on my own efforts for my votes. His were machine-made."

Careful Explanations.

"What made you throw that bomb?" asked the policeman.

"My conscience," replied the suspicious character. "I got to thinkin' dat no respectable guy would have a bomb wit 'im, see? So I jest tossed it from me."

A Financial Theory.

"How do you account for psychological depression?"

"Your question helps to account for it," replied Mr. Dustin Stax. "There's too much expert accounting and not enough actual business."

Prepared.

"So your son's joined the English forces at the front. I suppose he was horrified at the first sight of a bloody battlefield."

"Oh, no; he had played too many football games while he was at college."

The Estimate.

"That pretty girl's marriage was purely a business matter on her part."

"I understood it was a transaction on her face value."

Women suffering from any form of female ills are invited to communicate promptly with the woman's private correspondence department of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Out of the vast volume of experience which they have to draw from, it is more than possible that they possess the very knowledge needed in your case. Nothing is asked in return except your good will, and their advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Address Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass.

IMAGINATION IS GOOD THING

It Takes Dreamer to See Transformation Intelligent Effort Will Bring to Pass.

It is a good thing for the farmer boy to have an imagination. It is a good thing for him to "dream dreams and see visions." It takes a dreamer to see the transformation that intelligent effort will bring to pass on the old place. It takes a dreamer to see how much more desirable that place will be in ten years than a job in a dry goods store.

It is the boy who dreams who sees a field of thrifty alfalfa where that stunted yellow corn is growing on the timber forty. It is the boy who dreams who sees those hungry-looking cows replaced by a herd of dairy matrons that tax the capacity of the milk cans at every milking. It is the boy who dreams who sees a waving corn field where the cat-tails are growing, who sees a woven wire fence in place of the old hedge, and a new barn where the cow shed is falling to pieces.

We need more dreamers on the farm.—Prairie Farmer.

EXERCISE IN THE OPEN AIR

Very Few Days in Year When Person Who Is Wrapped Up Cannot Sit in Sheltered, Sunny Corner.

One great difference between outdoor air and indoor air is that the first circulates freely and the second is stagnant. Another difference is that floods of sunshine constantly cleanse outdoor air of its impurities, but most rooms get very little of that useful commodity. Many persons who visit the physician with complaints of poor digestion and anemia declare that they are active all day long and that going out for walks is the last thing they need.

They may be right about the amount of exercise they get, but people constantly fall sick in spite of plenty of exercise in the house, and get well again with a little outdoor exercise. A certain amount of active work about the house is good for everyone, but there ought to be some daily outdoor life as well.

It does not follow that that outdoor life ought to include violent exercise, or even any exercise at all. Why should the housemother be told that she cannot keep well unless she dresses up in walking clothes and takes a long walk after a fatiguing morning of physical labor in the house? Tired people should do their resting in the open air. There are very few days in the year when a person who is warmly wrapped up cannot sit with comfort in a sheltered, sunny corner. Everyone knows how babies thrive when they take their naps outdoors; the principle applies to the adult also.

It is a matter of scientific record that people whose daily occupation obliges them to sit in the open air—such as market women, attendants at fruit stands and newspaper sellers—are robust people, who do not take cold easily. Yet it is probable that few people take less exercise.

Let it be understood that this is not at all an argument against physical exercise. That is not only excellent, but in most cases necessary. But you need not forego both air and exercise because you cannot conveniently have both; open-air life without exercise is much more healthful than indoor life with it.—Youth's Companion.

Rheumatic Throat Is Common Trouble

Should Be Treated in Blood To Prevent Recurrence.

There are successful gargles that stop soreness in the throat, but to prevent their incessant return, the blood must be put in order. The best remedy is S. S. S., as it influences all the functions of the body to neutralize the irritants or waste products and to stimulate their excretion through the proper channels.

Rheumatic sore throat is a dangerous indication, as it means that the blood is loaded with more uric acid than the kidneys can excrete, and may thus lead to serious general disturbance.

The action of S. S. S. stimulates cellular activity. It prevents the accumulation of irritants in local spots. It enables the arteries to supply quickly the new red blood to replace worn-out tissue.

For this reason uric acid that finds the throat an easy prey to its breaking-down influence, is scattered and eliminated. In other words, S. S. S. prevents chronic conditions by enabling all the mucous linings of the body to secrete healthy mucus. Its influence is shown in a marked improvement of the bronchial tubes, whereby the huskiness of voice with thick, grayish expectorations is overcome. S. S. S., well diluted with water, means a blood bath, since it is welcome to any stomach and at once gets into the blood.

S. S. S. is free of all minerals and contains ingredients wonderfully conducive to well-balanced health.

You can get it at any drug store, but do not accept anything else. There is danger in substitutes. S. S. S. is prepared only by The Swift Specific Co., 528 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Our Medical Dept. will give you free instruction by mail on any subject of blood disorders. Write today.

When Making Cakes.

A quick way to clean currants when making cakes is to put the fruit into a colander with a sprinkling of flour and rub round a few times with your hand. It is surprising how quickly the stalks are separated and come through the small holes.

GIVE "SYRUP OF FIGS" TO CONSTIPATED CHILD

Delicious "Fruit Laxative" Can't Harm Tender Little Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing at once. When peevish, cross, listless, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad, has sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups.

Gun Without Recoil.

An officer of the United States navy has invented a gun that fires a six-pound projectile without recoil. This gun, because of its absence of recoil, is well adapted to use on aeroplanes or dirigibles.

The gun is most interesting, having both ends open to the atmosphere. The shell has the projectile fitted into one end, and in the other end is a mass of bird-shot. The shot is of sufficient weight to furnish the required reaction when the projectile is discharged from the other end of the gun. When the gun is fired the projectile is thrown from the muzzle at a high velocity while the shot is discharged from the breech at low velocity.

Sprains, Bruises Stiff Muscles

Sloan's Liniment will save hours of suffering. For bruise or sprain it gives instant relief. It arrests inflammation and thus prevents more serious troubles developing. No need to rub it in—it acts at once, instantly relieving the pain, however severe it may be.

Here's Proof

Charles Johnson, P. O. Box 105, Lawton's Station, N. Y., writes: "I sprained my ankle and dislocated my left hip by falling out of a third story window six months ago. I went on crutches for four months, then I started to use some of your Liniment, according to your directions, and I must say that it is helping me wonderfully. I threw my crutches away. Only used two bottles of your Liniment and now I am walking quite well with one cane. I never will be without Sloan's Liniment."

ncident That Taught Him It Was Wise to Avoid Houses Wherein Are Young Children.

"Of course, in my business, same as in any other," said the retired burglar, "you learn by experience. One of the first things I learned in that way was to avoid houses where they had young children, infants.

"Grown folks may sleep right through thunderstorms, windstorms, things falling down in the house, most any sort of racket, but you never can tell what an infant will do. And those same grown-up folks that will sleep right through anything else will wake up sharp at the smallest peep from an infant. They seem to be tuned that way. But I had to learn this by experience.

"One night when I was new in the business I went into what seemed to me a promising looking house in the suburban districts. Got in by the easy cellar window and padded upstairs to the second story front room with no trouble at all and went straight to the bureau. I opened the top drawer gently, without a queak, and when I turned in my light the very first thing I saw was a diamond ring that I guess must have made my eyes sparkle as much as the ring did. It was a big stone, I should think two or three carats.

"It was a man's ring, and instead of slipping it straight into my pocket as I should have done I put it on my finger for just a moment to look at it. At that same instant I heard a baby begin to cry.

"I had seen two persons in a bed in this room, but I had not observed a crib over on the other side of the bed. But the instant that baby cried one of the figures in the bed raised up on its elbow with its back toward me and looked over into the crib at the child, and I didn't need to have anybody tell me that it was time for me to go, which I did, without those two persons in the bed knowing then that I had been there at all."

Portraiture in Italy.

The Pagine d'Arte, of Milan, of October 30, commenting on the closing of the biennial Fine Arts Exhibition in Venice, says: "As in most modern Italian picture exhibitions there was a great scarcity of portraits, and the question naturally arises as to what this scarcity may be attributed—to want or demand? Until thirty years ago there was an abundance of good portrait painters in Italy, but since then they seem to be altogether wanting. The fact that not a single portrait of artistic value exists in Italy of either King Humbert and Queen Margherita, of the present King Vittorio and Queen Elena, nor of the last two popes, the only good presentments of these royalties being by foreign artists, seems to point to a scarcity of good portrait painters in Italy."

A Human Churn

"WHEN the food reaches the stomach it is subjected to a peculiar churning movement by the muscular walls of the stomach"—(See Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, page 45). In the liver, kidneys and skin, the blood is purified of its waste materials—these organs act as human filters, leaving the blood pure and clear—unless liver, digestive tract and kidneys are clogged.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

is a stomach, liver and kidney tonic—by assisting the stomach to assimilate, the liver to filter, the kidneys to act—the poisons are removed, the red blood corpuscles are increased and one feels light, fresh and active instead of logy, dull and heavy. The "Discovery" stimulates the stomach, increases action of heart and arteries and is a most satisfactory alterative in blood-taint of any character. The refreshing influence of this extract of native medicinal plants has been favorably known for over forty years. Everywhere some neighbor can tell you of the good it has done.

10 CENT "CASCARETS" IF BILIOUS OR COSTIVE

For Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Sluggist Liver and Bowels—They Work While You Sleep.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months.

USE FOR LEFT-OVER TURKEY

Probably There Is No Better Way Than by Converting It Into a Salad.

Generally there is quite a bit of the turkey left over, not enough perhaps for a full meal again but quite sufficient for an excellent salad for an evening function, high tea or a course luncheon. If the white turkey meat does run short it is an easy matter to supplement it with some of the dark meat or even roast veal or fresh pork and no one will be the wiser. Cut the meat into dice, then measure and allow an equal quantity of celery, cut in fairly good-sized pieces. If you have any walnuts, butternuts or almonds, cook them in a little stock or boiling salted water for twenty minutes, then chop fine. At serving time mix together the turkey or other meat, nuts and celery and allow to each quart of the mixture, a teaspoonful of salt, a quarter teaspoonful of paprika, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce and if you like it a tiny piece or clove of garlic, just enough to give a suggestion to the palate, without the odor. Toss and mix well and having lined your salad bowl with crisp lettuce leaves, put in the salad mixed with a little mayonnaise, heap up, mask with more mayonnaise and serve. A pretty garnish for this is the stuffed olives or bits of the sweet red peppers that come in cans. Chicken salad is made in the same way. A few spoonfuls of the stock in which the chicken has been boiled, makes a richer salad.

A TRIAL WILL CONVINCE ANYONE —THE GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY NEVER DISAPPOINTS

A few years ago I was troubled with a complication of kidney and stomach ailments and although I tried two or three different doctors, I was unable to obtain a cure. Having heard a great deal about Swamp-Root, I decided to give it a trial and purchased a one-dollar bottle of Mr. Alexander, the druggist. From the beginning I could notice a change for the better and after taking eight bottles of your medicine, I felt entirely cured and have not had any trouble since.

Had I began using Swamp-Root sooner, I would have been a few hundred dollars to the good and saved myself a lot of suffering.

You may use my testimonial any time you wish. Yours very truly,

Vaccinate With Eggs.

Vaccinating a child with whites of eggs to cure it of asthma is the curious advance in medical knowledge worked out by Dr. Fritz B. Talbot of Boston.

He has proved that asthma in some children is a form of the body reaction, called by the doctors, "anaphylaxis," that it occurs in the children as the result of susceptibility to proteid substances in eggs, or, as mothers would say, is a manifestation of "egg poisoning," and these children can be immunized against egg poisoning and freed of their asthmatic attacks by repeated doses of egg white. After the skin has been cleansed with soap and alcohol, the egg white is rubbed into a slight scratch.

Agricultural Schools

The rural high schools of the State will be able to provide agricultural courses such as dairying, horticulture, viticulture, and general farming, including farm mechanics and supplementary science courses, if the vocational education measure, introduced in the Legislature by Senator Strobridge, becomes a law.

A large part of the population of this state is engaged in agriculture and the number of individuals so engaged is rapidly increasing. In the past there was so much available land that the matter of intensive cultivation with its accompanying increase in production was considered of little or no importance.

At the present time a large proportion of the available land of the state is under cultivation; if this land is to support the constantly increasing population, such support will have to be brought about by a more intensive cultivation of the soil.

This means that the people of the state can no longer afford to exploit its agricultural resources; and they can hinder such exploitation only by providing the necessary education for those who are to become the producers in this field of activity during the next generation.

Another bill introduced provides for the establishment of intermediate schools. If this act becomes a law it will make it possible for the districts within the rural high school district to provide for the education of the boys and girls of the seventh and eighth grades in these schools. Through their segregation opportunity may be provided for agricultural and home making courses for these individuals, many of whom complete their education with the elementary course or at most with a year or two of high school training.

Methodist Church Notes

The attendance at the League meeting last Sunday was 89. It begins to look as if the banner is headed our way. We must keep up the pace for three months, though.

Remember the cottage meeting at the Farley home on First St., Friday evening of this week.

We have our second Communion Service for this year Sunday morning and we expect all members of the church not unavoidably detained to be present.

In response to the request of the pastor of the Congregational church and the Searchlight Class for a union gathering to hear Judge Beasly, we have withdrawn our service Sunday evening. The meeting of the Epworth League will, however, be held as usual at 6:30. Andrew Huntley is the leader for this week. Let us roll the attendance up to 100 this time.

The monthly business meeting of the League will be held at the close of prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

The hour of the Wednesday evening meeting has been changed from seven o'clock to seven-thirty for the spring and summer months.

Our District Conference will be held at Los Gatos March 16-17. We hope that many of our lay members, especially those in official relation to the church, may be able to participate in this meeting. See the program in the California Advocate this week.

An Ounce of Prevention

IT is said that the sword of Damocles was suspended above the head of that tyrant with but a single thread.

Every man, woman and child ought to think well of the lesson taught by this example.

The fire demon is the sword of destruction that ever hangs above the heads of the people. If you knew that by the mere snipping of a thread all that you had saved would be wiped out, wouldn't you ever be on the alert to see that the thread was not snipped?

More property is destroyed by fire than by all other destroying elements combined.

Storms come with the seasons, and warning of their coming is generally given. Winds reach a destructive velocity at but rare intervals and floods follow expected courses.

But fires are catholic in their field. They visit the just and the unjust and everywhere there is food for the fire demon he finds his victuals.

Be on the watch tower of your own home all the time. He fattens on your own folly. You can prevent his paying you a visit if you but will.

School Meeting

A largely attended and very interesting meeting was held at the Grammar School Tuesday afternoon, to talk about a new school building and a bond issue.

Some of Miss Clark's pupils gave a recitation and others dramatized the "Three Little Pigs" which was very well done with the limited space and materials.

Miss Farley's room earned the picture for this month.

E. R. Kennedy had very kindly taken Mrs. G. E. Atkinson, Mrs. D. W. Waite, and Mrs. H. C. Smith to Sunnyvale, to inspect the new school house which that village has recently completed and the school is now occupying.

Prof. M. E. Shippy of the Sunnyvale school very kindly returned with the committee and spoke to the company, describing their school building and telling how satisfactory it was proving in every way as they use it.

Mr. Shippy had an itemized account of the expenditure of the $25,200, which was the amount of the bonds sold, with the premium. The problem there was quite similar to the one here except that a considerable sum had to be expended in the purchase of additional ground on which to move the old building.

It was the intention to secure a copy of these items for publication—to show the cost of the structure itself, the amounts spent for first class equipment, for seating the assembly hall, etc., but we may later.

The building is to be a civic center, the assembly hall and court, which can be used in addition for large gatherings, is for the use of the city for such occasions as our "Old Settlers' Day," mass meetings, and the like.

Mrs. Waite spoke of her experience when locating in California and that her first question about a place was in regard to the schools, and that settlers are the same now. She expressed her willingness to pay what additional tax it would make to have as good a school as our neighbors, one to which we could point with pride.

B. O. Curry, who always stands for progress and improvement on all lines and who has a good deal of property in this district, spoke very heartily in favor of a good, new building, which will meet all requirements of modern education and sanitation.

C. H. Whitman added his good word, explaining how a new building would also help the High School, by combining the manual training department with that of the Grammar School. That would make more class rooms there and allow for the enlargement of the assembly room also.

All of these citizens are taxpayers and have no children to profit by a new building.

The fact that all the speakers were in favor of the new building and the $25,000 bond, was not intentional as the committee had arranged to have speakers, "For and against the bonds," but those who were known to oppose a bond, or were in favor of a smaller amount, and were asked to speak, did not come. Every one present was urged to voice his or her opinions, which ever side they were on. Mrs. E. Fritz of Sunnyside responded, and altho expressing herself as favoring the building, brot up some points that could be used in opposing it. She also mentioned that she owned property in another place, not so valuable as that here, upon which the taxes were much higher.

Mrs. Smith added a few details in description of the Sunnyvale school, emphasizing the very essential uses to be made of the present building, for manual training, domestic science, (sewing and cooking) agriculture and other general courses later. An invitation was extended to all before leaving to inspect the building, and ask any questions of those who had the privilege of seeing the Sunnyvale school.

The enterprising people of Moreland will hold a mass meeting at the Moreland Hall next Wednesday evening to discuss the matter of a bond issue to improve their school house and grounds.

Death of Mrs. Segress

The death of Mrs. Mabel L. Segress, wife of George Segress, and eldest daughter of Mrs. May F. Beardsley of Campbell, occurred Feb. 26th at Columbia Hospital, San Jose. On Feb. 4th Mrs. Segress came to Campbell to visit her mother for a few weeks, prior to removing from Gilroy to Exter, Cal., where Mr. Segress was to engage in business. It was thought that a few days' rest would restore Mrs. Segress to her usual health, but this failing, physicians decided that an operation was necessary. This was performed Monday, Feb 22nd. Her strength, however, was not sufficient to carry her through the strain, and she passed away Friday evening. The body was taken to the undertaking parlors, where loving friends covered the casket with flowers. Among these a beautiful piece from the Ladies' Aid Society of the Christian church of Gilroy, testified to her loving service in the cause of Christ, and to the friends she had made in her few years' residence at Gilroy.

Mrs. Beardsley accompanied the stricken husband and little child on their sad errand to Tulare, where the interment took place.

At Rest

Mrs. Hazel Irene McInnis, aged 24 years, passed away early Monday morning after patiently suffering for a year with plural pneumonia. At times the pain was terrible, but she never complained. During her illness she had been with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Spencer, on Sunnyside.

The funeral services, conducted by the Rev. Halsey Werlein, were held from the Gummer's undertaking parlors, Tuesday afternoon. Interment at Oak Hill.

She is survived by her husband, J. R. McInnis, and one year old baby son, parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Anderson of San Francisco, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Spencer.

Bread or Alcohol

One day in the Russian Duma a man rose and said:

"I hold in my hand an official report showing that the government now owns and has stored in warehouses and elevators, rye, wheat and oats to the extent of more than 100,000,000 bushels. This grain was purchased for the manufacture of vodka, we cannot use it for bread. The deciding factor in this great war in which we are engaged will be famine. That is, the country that has the greatest food supply will eventually win. If we use our grain for vodka, we cannot use it for bread. I therefore hereby introduce a bill providing that the government shall cease the manufacture and sale of spirituous liquors in every form; that it shall also prohibit the manufacture and sale of strong drink; and that, on penalty, no grain or other food substances shall be used in this country by any one under any condition for the manufacture of strong drink."

And behold the bill was passed. The Russian people preferred bread to alcohol. Since which remarkable and yet natural decision they have proven the wisdom of it. Prohibition in Russia came because it was moral, economic and uplifting.—National Advocate.

Announcement Made

The engagement of Miss Alma A. Gilman, who lives with her parents on San Tomas Road to Ernest Jones, was announced at a party Tuesday evening, at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. L. Grant of Hull Ave., San Jose. Miss Gilman is bookkeeper at M. Blum & Co.'s. store.

The announcement was made by a guessing game. Articles in envelopes were guessed by feeling and the answer written on the outside.

Later the envelopes were opened and beside the article, was an announcement card.

Dainty refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. About twenty-five guests were present, Misses Mary Miller and Cynthia Bersinger of Campbell being present.

How the United States Rose From the Ocean.

An interesting exhibit which will be shown by the United States Geological Survey at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, in San Francisco, will be the illustration of the development of the surface features of the United States and adjoining lands—the gradual rise of the continent from the primal ocean and the accompanying development of life—a pictorial story of progress from the early fish and the huge half-reptile creatures known as saurians to the higher mammals such as the great saber-tooth tiger and the giant hyena.

Lundy Island.

Lundy island, at the entrance of the Bristol channel, has a queer record. It was owned in the eighteenth century by a Barnstaple man, who contracted to ship convicts to Virginia, but only took them to the island, where he profitably employed them, even in smuggling to the mainland.

Ministerial Aspirants.

Statistics show that in the early days of American colleges about one-half of all the graduates adopted the ministry as a profession. At the present time it is different; only about 5 per cent of the college graduates become ministers.

Congregational Church

"The Friendly Church just around the Corner."

The theme for Sunday morning will be "Herod. The Monster that was almost human;" being fifth in the series of morning messages on "The Builders of the Cross." From the Cross of the Christ there issues a penetrating power. Those who touched this tragedy of the world did so only to have their characters discovered, the secret of their soul shown. The things which gave shape to their conduct were unveiled.

The Searchlights have charge of the Evening Service. The Class President will preside. They have secured as their speaker, Hon. W. A. Beasly, Judge of our Juvenile Court. Judge Beasly will speak on "The work of the Juvenile Court for and with Girls and Young Women." The M. E. Church has accepted the invitation of the Searchlights and will join with us, thus making it a Union Service. Let us greet the distinguished speaker with a splendid audience.

Come and bring your friends.
